An Act of Congress was passed on the 7th of August, 1780, to give the ordinance full effect, and to adapt it to the Constitution of the United States. The ordinance provided for the organization of a government, consisting of executive, legislative and judicial departments. But the governor and judges were empowered to select statute laws of different States, as laws for the territory, until the population would number five thousand, when a legislature should be elected and organized. By an Act of Congress, approved May 7, 1800, all that part of the territory of the United States, North-west of the Ohio river, which lies to the westward of a line, beginning at the Ohio, opposite to the mouth of the Kentucky river, and running thence to Fort Recovery, and thence North until it intersects the territorial line between the United States and Canada, for the purposes of a temporary government, constituted a separate territory, called the Indiana territory. The general provisions of the ordinance were extended to this territory. The judges of the Courts were appointed for good behaviour, by the President of the United States. April 30, 1802, the State of Ohio was admitted into the...
