By the time the chicks are six weeks old they can manage dry grain, and they like that for the last feed at night. We continue the bread crumbs and oat-meal feeds for three or four months, and feed four times a day until the chicks are probably four months old; then reduce it to three times a day, taking pains of course to feed a larger amount at each time. The greater the number of feeds, as a rule, the smaller the proportion should be, so that an excess shall not be fed. That is a point to be carefully guarded against. We continue oat-meal...
