Barrie Wilson is Professor of Humanities Religious Studies at York University in Toronto. A specialist in early Christian origins, this is his first book intended for a general audience. Building on contemporary critical scholarship, it addresses some of the major puzzles he has identified in teaching biblical studies over a twenty-year period. An award-winning educator, his previous academic books focused on textual interpretation. How Jesus Became Christian looks at how one of the world s great religions prospered and grew at the cost of another and confronts a fundamental question about religious history: Who was Jesus Christ--a Jew or a Christian? He looks at the rivalry between the Jesus movement, led by James, informed by the teachings of Matthew and adhering to Torah worship, and the Christ movement, headed by Paul, which shunned the Torah. Wilson suggests that Paul s movement was not rooted in the teachings and sayings of the historical Jesus, a man Paul never met, but solely in Paul s mystical, idealized vision of Christ. Wilson goes on to show how Paul established the new religion through anti-Semitic propaganda, which ultimately crushed the Jesus Movement. This is a provocative, well-written religious history about the core differences between Christianity...
